I found Imbue Botanicals about 3 years ago when I woke up in the middle of the night and I had unexpected tooth pain and it was very painful. And I had recently purchased some CBD liquid tincture and it was sitting on my night table so I put that on the tooth and around the area and within 2 minutes the pain was gone. I was greatly relieved and extremely impressed.

So in the morning I called the company and after talking to Tom, the owner, I decided to become a distributor and to carry these products in my psychotherapy practice. I have always had anxiety because of childhood trauma and I've never taken antidepressants or anti-anxiety medication. Tom recommended that I take the CBD oil capsules, 10 mg per day. Within 2 weeks I could notice a difference in my anxiety levels. So I began recommending this for my clients.

Imbue Botanicals is not content to deliver “me too” products, but rather we focus on key factors which we believe increase efficacy and separate us from the pack. Presentation of product, we believe is as important as the product itself. But most important is the quality, consistency and sustainability our products are produced under. With extensive experience in the industry, we personally develop and source all of our products, utilize the highest quality organic ingredients, and never compromise.

But most important, we grow and process all of our product right here in the United States in Colorado. Unlike other companies that simply import CBD oil or powdered isolate from foreign countries such as China or Romania, we believe that maintaining the all-important chain of custody on our product, from seed to the final consumer is of critical importance to providing an exceptional quality product to both people and pets. Not only do we ensure best practices are followed in the growing process of our highly refined hemp, but we process in company-owned and contracted facilities in clean room environments, using best practices of manufacturing to ensure a consistent, reliable outcome. And we only grow our hemp in fields suitable for products intended for human consumption, as the picture above so clearly demonstrates.

But we also believe in corporate responsibility. Our “Earth First” approach means we never use pesticides or harmful chemicals in growing or processing our products. We use organic, non-GMO, Vegan ingredients and package products in fully recyclable materials. But we don't stop there. We also donate to animal rescues and provide discount programs for VETERANS and DISABLED customers.

In short, few companies can match or even come close to our comprehensive process of growing, processing, packaging, distribution and corporate philosophy. And frankly, this is one of the key reasons why we say what we do...
